

Bobs acronym: Capital letters, written in font Times New Roman

BOBS Standard Mark (for Product Certification) is a stylized representation of a diamond with the acronym "BOBS" imposed (in Times New Roman capital letters) on the lower part of the diamond.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE STANDARD MARK

The diamond consists of a crown and base each displaying five facets which are symmetrically constructed to the outer dimension of 5X (height) by 8X (length).

The crown is a set of five centrally aligned polygons with the height of 1X apart. The line 5X long is marked at points 0.5X and 1.5X from each end. The Line 8X long is marked at points 1X and 2.5X from each end. The ends of the two lines and the two sets of points are joined by straight lines.

The base is a set of five triangles made by locating a centrally aligned point 4X vertically below the 8X line, and joining that point to the 8X line at the ends and at points 1X and 2.5X from each end.

The size of the letters varies according to the horizontal length of the diamond. The height of the letters is 2X. The top of the letters is 0.5X from the 8X horizontal centre line of the diamond.

The lines shall be 0,1 X thick.
